

The Carmel Pine Cone Cymbal

Carmel No Longer Original in Tax Delinquency Date

Shortly, Carmel citizens will cease to be different in one respect. They will pay their city taxes on the same date as everybody else throughout the County and the State.

At the special meeting of the city council called to pass the rabies quarantine resolution Wednesday afternoon, Deputy City Clerk Jeannette Parkes gave the first reading of the amended tax ordinance which shifts the dates when city taxes become due and delinquent so that they coincide with the due and delinquency dates for county taxes.

The action resulted from a flood of protest letters received last December when a number of Carmel property owners who live out of town complained that they had overlooked paying their Carmel city taxes because they became delinquent a month before the county tax, and the tax delinquency dates of other cities in which they owned property.

One accused the city of trying to trick him into delinquency. One stated bitterly "Carmel WOULD be different," while another termed the date discrepancy an "annually occurring nuisance."

The dates, a month ahead of

THE GOLDEN DAYS OF EATING

Scratch us and you'll find most of us north of Santa Barbara are San Franciscans under the skin. When we want to celebrate, we unerringly head for "the city." We of Carmel, shamelessly proud of our own town, boast we are villagers. But when old tales are told of the glory of the San Francisco of the past, when visitors speak of the brightness and gaiety of the San Francisco of the present, and when partisans predict the might of the San Francisco of the future, we expand our chests with pride and delight in our "city." We have our pie and eat it.

All of which is a preface to the announcement of an eating orgy in three installments starting on the feature page of this issue of the Pine Cone Cymbal. A former San Franciscan now a villager, has written on a subject of which he is well qualified to speak from first hand experience, a subject of which the younger fry never tire of hearing, San Francisco's fabulous restaurants as they were in the champagne era before the "quake."

But the writer, like all of us, glorying in the early, swashbuckling history of the "city" can't resist an opportunity to talk of the vivid, wicked, rootin'-tootin' period when all the world poured through San Francisco on its way to "the diggins." This material makes up his Foreward, the first installment of the series: "The Golden Days of Eating in San Francisco."

Rabies

The quarantine for rabies the State and County Health Authorities have declared in Carmel and other cities of the Monterey Peninsula is not a joke, a scare or a racket.

Dogs proven to be rabid by test in the University of California laboratories have bitten a number of other dogs in this community—some of them yet unidentified. In a few days the incubation period of the disease will be over and these dogs will develop rabies. If their owners have complied with the quarantine regulations and kept the dogs tied up on their own premises, the disease will be checked. But if these dogs are not confined, are running loose in the community when the disease takes effect, they can in a half hour's time bite and infect a dozen other pets, as well as any human being that may cross their path.

Death from rabies is a horror which those who have witnessed it are never likely to forget.

It has not been the policy of this paper to take an alarmist attitude toward anything. We have no desire to inflict this town with fear for its children and its pets, but the attitude of certain of the inhabitants who talk of "scares" and "rabies rackets" has made it necessary to speak bluntly of the seriousness of the situation.

The State and County Health authorities, with the full approval of the Carmel City Council, have declared the quarantine for the Body Identified by Picture Intended For Fiancee

A silhouette cut by M. De Neale Morgan and lying in the Pine Cone Cymbal Editor's "material to be returned" basket was the means of identifying the body of Daniel Hall Finch found at Stillwater Cove, Pebble Beach, Monday afternoon.

Finch, a soldier from Oklahoma, was drowned while swimming off Carmel beach February 17. On the finding of the body at Stillwater Cove, Finch's superior officer was asked to identify it.

Owing to the long period of immersion, he was unable to make identification until he received the silhouette which served as well as a profile photo (frequently the best means of identification in such cases).

M. De Neale Morgan had brought the silhouette to the Pine Cone Cymbal office last week with a letter from Finch's fiancee, printed in last week's paper, in which she asked for the silhouette that Finch had spoken of in a letter written to her shortly before his death. The letter also contained an account of his visit to the Morgan studio and his delight in the beauty of Carmel.

Sanitary Board Appoints Clayton B. Neill To Fill Keith Evans' Vacancy

Thermometer Up; Dirt Bombers' Assn. Contribute

With 85 solicitors donating their time and energies to the work, the Red Cross drive thermometer reached the $8,500 mark this week approaching the half-way mark of its quota, $18,900. The rise in temperature has been rapid, since at this time last week the red-paint mercury stood at $4,500.

Of the total contributed to date, $3,500 was collected by the advance committee, and 25 cents by the Dirt Bombers' Association.

A representative of the latter organization, aged 10, arrived at the Red Cross Drive headquarters with two committeemen of similar age and presented the club donation. When he discovered that a dollar donation was needed to warrant one of those interesting Red Cross tags that dangle from the shirt pocket like a Bull Durham tab, he withdrew with his committeemen to approach the other members of the organization for the necessary 75 cents in consideration of which he was promised by the worker in charge of the office that the Dirt Bombers' Association would receive not just one tag, but enough tags to dangle gaudily on the chest of each and every individual member of the organization.

Sunset Spells Almost as Well As the Nation

After four months of "intensive hammering on spelling" Sunset students have raised their spelling achievement record to within one tenth per cent of the average prevailing in elementary schools throughout the nation. Mrs. Helen Wood, Sunset principal told the school Board at its meeting Tuesday night in the High School board room.

Achievement tests conducted last fall revealed that Sunset students were "high in reading skills, high even in comparison to their superior ability," Mrs. Wood said. Their arithmetic achievement was up to average as was the case in other subjects tested with the exception of spelling in which accomplishment the students were four months behind the norm. Sunset teachers held conferences to discuss teaching techniques and to institute a drive against the weakness. After four months of intensive work, the spelling achievement has been brought up to the point where Sunset students are now only one month behind. The policy at Sunset will continue to put emphasis on spelling, Mrs. Wood told the board, so that "I expect we can be proud of our spelling, too, by the end of the year."

In her attendance report, the Sunset principal said that from

At their monthly meeting Monday night the Sanitary Board members added another civil engineer to their group when they appointed Clayton B. Neill, district manager for the California Water and Telephone Company to fill the unexpired term of Keith B. Evans who resigned last fall to go into the army.

Neill, with his wife and two sons, Clayton Jr. and Gilbert, came to Carmel in 1940 from National City near San Diego where he was employed by the same company with which he has been associated since 1927.

Born in Barterville, Indiana, he came to California with his parents when a small child, was raised in the San Joaquin valley, received his degree in civil engineering at Stanford University and served in the Merchant Marine in the last war.

Since coming to the Monterey peninsula, he has participated in community life both in Monterey and Carmel. He represented utilities in the Civilian Defense drills, was a member of the Boy Scouts Fund Drive Committee, belongs to the Rotary Club in Monterey and the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

At present in Washington, D. C., on business for his company, he has been notified of his appointment by letter from secretary of the board, Bernard Rowntree. He is expected home in two weeks.

The membership of the Sanitary board now consists of: Hugh W. Comstock, architect and builder; Dr. J. B. McCarthy, physician; L. L. Kellogg, civil engineer; Lt. Allan Knight, businessman, now in the nautical guard, and new member, Clayton B. Neill, civil engineer.

Helen Clark Cranston Named Member of GOP Executive Committee

Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston of Carmel has just been appointed a member of the Executive Committee of the Republican State Central Committee, by its chairman, Senator E. H. Tickle.

Mrs. Cranston, since she came to live here three years ago, has always taken a vital interest in civic as well as cultural affairs. Since last September she has served as head of the Monterey Peninsula Women's Republican Club, and is also president of the Carmel Woman's Club.

A native of Ohio, she has had the advantage of wide travel and experience. Fifteen years of her life were spent in the Philippines, and prior to making her home in Carmel, she lived for ten years in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Cranston is the mother of two sons, both of whom are now a part of our fighting forces. The elder, Harry D. Cranston, Jr., a graduate of Princeton and the Harvard School of Business, lives with his wife at Sikeston, Missouri, where he is serving as a flying instructor at the Army primary flight base. The other son, William L. Cranston, also a

City, County, State Rabies Quarantine Here

The Rabies Quarantine became official at 5:15 Wednesday afternoon when the City Council passed a resolution (printed on page 13 of this paper) that all dogs and cats within the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea shall be kept upon the private premises of the owner in strict confinement and under leash, closed cages or paddocks; and that the Chief of Police shall report all violations of said Quarantine Order to the Health Officer of the County of Monterey and furnish to said Health Officer all information within his knowledge concerning any such violation.

The action of the City Council was the result of the occurrence of several cases of rabies in Carmel and is in co-operation with the spot quarantine declared on the Monterey Peninsula by the State of California and the County of Monterey.

Earlier during the day the Pine Cone Cymbal received official notice of the State Quarantine which is printed on page 13 of this issue and a sample of the yellow rabies quarantine signs that will make their appearance throughout town today and tomorrow. They state:

"Rabies Quarantine: All dogs and cats must be confined during this quarantine period. California State Quarantine Law Requires:

1. Impounding or killing of all loose dogs and cats.
2. Holding for observation any dogs or cats that have been bitten by dogs or cats.
3. Reporting all cases of persons or animals that have been bitten by dogs or cats.
4. Notifying Peace Officer, County Health Department, Humane Officers, or Poundman.

All proper officials are authorized.

Have the Abaloniers Been Living Right? See Sunday's Weather

By ROBERT DOERR

The burning question of the moment in Carmel concerns Jupiter Pluvius. Will he relent long enough for the Abalone League to play its second game? The rugged athletes who cavort upon the greensward weekly are straining at the leash. In four weeks but one game has been played, and that one arranged on the spur of the moment. If Abalone Leaguers have been living right during this past week, and we have had sufficient dry weather to allow solid footing on the high school turf, there will be a double header on Sunday, with each team playing two games.

There is a possibility that if the high school field is too wet, the games may be played at the Sun-

S. F. Soloists For Musical Art Club Concert

By MRS. J. W. GETSINGER
On Sunday afternoon, March 14th at 2 p.m. in the music room of Carmel high school the Musical Art Society will present two fine soloists from San Francisco. Miss Gladys Steele sings folk songs and character songs with charm and musical understanding. She accompanies herself with hardly a glance at the keys. Her expressive face, the vari-colored qualities of her voice, her delightful spontaneity and complete naturalness have won her praise from critics wherever she has appeared.

Carl Hague possesses a tenor voice of striking timbre, bright and ringing. He has appeared in the title role of Orpheus in the Underworld by Offenbach, conducted by Walter Herbert, with an orchestra composed of members of the San Francisco Symphony, as well as in many other programs given by this group.

The program is as follows: I: Total Eclipse from Samson-Handel; Silent Worship — Handel; Preach Not Me Your Musty Order — Dr. Arne, Carl Hague; II: Folk and Character Songs from the European Countries — Gladys Steele. III: Min Tanke Er Et Maegtigt Fjeld (My Mind Is Like a Peak Snow-Crowned — Grieg; Et Syn (A Vision) — Grieg; Mot Kveld (Towards Evening) — Agatha Buckner — Grondahl; Tonerna (Tones) — Sjoberg, Carl Hague. (The four songs above to be sung in Scandinavian: Norwegian, Swedish, Intermission. IV: Folk and Character Songs in English, including Songs by Antonia de Grassi, well known violinist and member of the S. F. Symphony Orchestra, with lyrics by the wellknown humorous poets Ogden Nash and Samuel Hoffenstein — Gladys Steele. V: O Thou Billowy Harvest Field — Rachmaninoff; Velvet Shoes — Thompson; The Calf, The Open Road — Ogden Nash, de Grassi; Song of the Flea — Moussorgsky. Mr. Hague.

New Picture at Carmel Theater

"Now Voyager," dramatic film taken from the novel by Olive Higgins Prouty and starring Bette Davis, comes to the Carmel Theater Sunday for a three day run. This is one of the deepest and most sincere love stories the screen has ever told.

Charlotte Vale (Bette Davis), member of a wealthy Boston family, is so completely dominated by her mother (Gladys Cooper), that she has a nervous breakdown. With the aid of her sister-in-law (Ilka Chase) and a psychiatrist (Claude Rains), she greatly improves her mental outlook and goes on a luxury cruise. She falls in love with Jerry Durrance (Paul Henreid) on shipboard. This is said to be one of Bette's best.

"China Girl" and "Kid Dynamite" are the features scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday. In "China Girl," George Montgomery plays the part of an American newspaper photographer captured by Japs in China. Gene Tierney is the feminine lead and Victor McLaglen plays a good,

Signup at Carmel High School for War Work Classes

The Stanford University War-Program's representative, Mrs. Stevenson, will be at Carmel high school on Tuesday, March 23, between 1 and 5 p.m., to interview any women and draft-deferred men who may be interested in the new courses to begin at Stanford University on April 5.

Tuition-free, 12-week courses will be given in aircraft drafting, engineering drafting and technical calculations. For the aircraft drafting, one of the large companies in San Diego is offering a subsidy of $100 per month (while in school at Stanford) to those who are approved by them for employment at their San Diego plant.

Prerequisite for enrollment is high school graduation with algebra and geometry.

Democratic Women Discuss Current Problems at Meet

The Carmel Women's Democratic club met Friday, March 5 at the home of Misses Clara and Ella Kellogg.

Included in the business meeting was a request from Mrs. Mix for volunteers to take coffee and sandwiches at 10 o'clock at night to the soldiers stationed at Pt. Lobos. Mrs. Paul H. Low responded to this request.

The program consisted of talks on current problems. Mrs. Ernest Leffingwell spoke on the Dies tough supporting role as an army major who, with Montgomery, successfully escapes from the Jap prison in which they meet. "Kid Dynamite" has Patsy Kelly and the East Side Kids in a story by Paul Ernst of Saturday Evening Post fame, about the rivalry of two boys, one a gang leader and the other his "stooge." The climax comes when the latter, who joins the army, refuses to act as a lookout for the gang in a planned robbery. Sprinkled in evenly with this is good comedy and some romance.

Next Friday and Saturday, "The Navy Comes Through" will be the feature film with Pat O'Brien, George Murphy and Jane Wyatt in the leading roles. These films and added short features will be shown at the regular Saturday matinee.

Irene Alexander To Review Book For Woman's Club

Miss Irene Alexander will review Alfred Kazin's new book, "On Native Grounds" for the book section of the Carmel Woman's Club, meeting at the new hour of 2:30 p.m. at Hotel La Ribera on Wednesday, March 17.

"On Native Grounds" is a study of modern American fiction, viewed philosophically by its author, with a view to considering writers and their output, not separately, but in full relationship to the historical events, the intellectual movements, the stresses and strains of their times.

Miss Alexander is not only herself the author of several books, but an interesting and dynamic speaker, and the coming review will be a treat for club members and their guests.

Committee. Mrs. Blanchard Steeves cleared up many popular misconceptions about Lend Lease. Miss Rachel Hiller explained the ideas and aims of different groups and individuals who are planning for post war.

"Birds and People" Subject of Talk At Audubon Meet

The Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will meet at the Pacific Grove Museum at 2:00 p.m. on Saturday, March 13th to listen to a talk by Mr. O. P. Silliman of Salinas. His topic is "Birds and People," and the material from which he will draw his speech is a magnificent collection of rare books and documents which he has gathered over a number of years as an enthusiastic amateur naturalist.

They include records of early explorers in this region, with their observations on both the inhabitants and the natural life they found. Mr. Silliman's talk will cover interesting anecdote concerning those early explorations, the men who made them, the contrast between bird life in Central California then and now, and the influence of their work on later ornithologists. The meeting is open to all who are interested in bird life.

Belgian Piano String Quartet In Concert Here

The Carmel Music Society will conclude its Winter Series with a recital by the Belgian Piano-String Quartet on Saturday evening, March 27. With such outstanding successes as the first three offered by the Society—Carmen Amaya, Malczewski, and Roland Hayes—the Society will come to a brilliant climax with the chamber music concert of the Belgians.

Organized in 1927, with piano, violin, viola and cello, the Belgians quickly became famous for their concerts in England, France, Austria, Germany, Holland, Switzerland and now in America. "A marvel of perfect unison and balance," "flawless performances" characterize all Belgian Quartet recitals. Tickets go on sale in the Carmel Land Office on Monday, March 22.

"Bundles" Invites Army-Navy Wives To Visit Shop

By HARRIET ROBERTS

One of the minor but very real distresses of war is that war work forces us to neglect so much else that we want to do. There is less time and strength to offer as much of friendliness and hospitality as we all wish to the many officers and men of the Army and Navy who make their temporary homes in Carmel.

"Bundles - United - America and Britain" would at least like to say how glad their workers are to welcome Army and Navy wives to their Thrift Shop on Dolores street near 7th avenue whether they come to buy or only to look at The Bundles' constantly changing supply of beautiful, useful and curious things. Their hope is, of course, that they may help in the adventure of housekeeping in Carmel in war time by supplying some of the articles which any house is sure to lack when it is furnished by some one, however well intentioned, who is not the occupant.

Perhaps some friend will have brought to the Thrift Shop just the thing for which the housekeeper is sighing, something that she had in her own old home, which can no longer be found in the shops. It is worthwhile coming to have "look-see" whenever one is shopping in Carmel, for new things come in every day. There are gowns and hats and shoes and jewelry at the Thrift Shop, as well as household articles.

And, when the difficult moment of leaving comes, we hope the Army and Navy wives will remember the Thrift Shop and let us have those nice things for which, at the last moment, there is never quite enough room in bags and trunks. In helping "Bundles-United" Thrift Shop, by purchasing and by giving, Army and Navy wives will have, we hope, assisted their own problems of housekeeping and of packing, will have had many an amusing "snoop" in this local "Old Curiosity Shop," and will have helped us to send help to Great Britain and to the American Navy and Merchant Marine—the profits of the Thrift Shop are divided equally between the needs of the two countries.

Square Dances, Music, Singing On USO Programs

A new program of weekly festivities got under way at the Carmel USO Thursday evening, March 11, under the leadership of Mrs. Peter Burk, chairman of the assistant hostesses group.

From now on the plan is to utilize talent among the hostesses and uniformed men and to encourage others to share their gifts in providing a weekly variety program. Miss Leila Gulmurt will be on hand to give instruction in the rumba, tango and samba. Miss Estelle Billington will be in charge of old-fashioned dances—the polka, schottische and square dances. From time to time there will be community singing, and the uniformed ranks have provided "Van," a piano player formerly with Benny Goodman's band, "Smitty," a singer, and "Mickey," a professional dancer.

The hostess group now includes: Harriet Anderson, Estelle Billington, Anita Brown, Anne Barrows, Betty Carr, Elizabeth Cass, Dorothy Castagna, Susan Cory, Elaine Cunningham, Leila Gulmurt, Jean James, Frances Johnson, the Misses Kinzey, Alice Kohner, Muriel Leavitt, Mrs. Hartman Lindsey, Mrs. Jack Martin, Eletteth McQuilkin, Blanche Olson, Elizabeth Paine, Blanche Walsh, Esther Ramsey, Beth Rasmussen, Stella Schnabel, Dorothy Sourisseau, Jeanne Staffebach, Betty Rae Sutton, Helen Todd, Bernice Troback, Dorothy Walker, Margaret Waybur and Mabel Wood.

Others who would be interested in contributing toward the fun and entertainment of these Thursday evenings are cordially invited to join the ranks.

Fun with First Aid In Alcoholic Skit

The general monthly meeting of the First Aid Group of Carmel, under the direction of Mrs. Pat Hudgins, was held on Wednesday afternoon in the Church of the Wayfarer. A skit prepared by Miss Micaela Martinez and her group was presented and caused much merriment. Two characters unskilled in First Aid, played by Mrs. Elsie Martinez and Miss Nan McCormick, stumbled upon an unconscious victim, played by Miss Harriet Dean. A humorous argument ensued as to whether her unconsciousness was due to apoplexy or alcoholism, during which all the wrong treatments were attempted.

Into the scene stepped Micaela Martinez, as the trained First Aider, who quickly diagnosed the patient's condition as due to slight concussion and sprained ankle and calmly rendered efficient first aid.

Following the skit, a contest on five problems took place, arranged and judged by Mrs. Jim Cooke, Mrs. Ruth Gorman and Mrs. F. J. Grover. Honors were carried off by the former victim, Miss Harriet Dean.

Plans were discussed for future meetings. At the next, to take place on Wednesday, April 14, at the same hour and place, a sound film, "Before the Doctor Comes" will be shown.

Fred Robbins at 84 Still Taking Active Part in Carmel Life

By "POP" SMITH

If you see an elderly gentleman, hat set jauntily on his head, shoulders erect, as if ready to face the world and anything it may have to offer, walking with an easy stride, disdaining the use of a cane—that is Mr. Fred O. Robbins, so long known and loved in Carmel. On Monday, March 8, he celebrated his 84th birthday, still young, still interested in doing kindly things for other people, taking pleasure in playing familiar old tunes on his little organ, cooking little dinners for his friends (and Fred is a GOOD cook!), beating them at cribbage, and taking pleasure in his fox terrier pal, Skipper.

Fred was born in San Francisco in the colorful days of '59, and at the age of 7, following the death of his father, started out by boat with his mother for Massachusetts. She died at sea before the boat reached Panama and was buried on one of the nearby islands, and the boy was returned to San Francisco. He still remembers that eventful voyage, for the ship was wrecked and for days the survivors lived on "geronimo soup" a concoction made by dumping in together the contents of all the canned goods saved. As their labels had been washed off, the stew contained tomatoes, beans, apricots, blackberries, etc.

He loves to recall the early days of his schooling in San Francisco, and his youthful adventures with an oldtime minstrel troupe he joined at one time. He prepared himself for the law, but it was as the owner of a brokerage business "The Triangle Realty Company" that he came to Carmel, shortly after World War I, and following the death of his wife.

For over twenty years he has been an active part of Carmel life. He has been a staunch attendant of Adult school classes, has played the organ in one of the local churches, and taken part in amateur dramatics here. Just last year, at the age of 83, he played the part of the cobbler in the Shakespeare Festival production of "Julius Caesar."

A cheerful companion, a good friend—that is Fred Robbins. Many happy returns on this, your 84th birthday.

Popular Demand Forces Troupers To Sunday Shows

"From Rags to Riches," the Gold Coast Troupers' latest success, directed by Irene Alexander, continues to run to sold out houses on Saturday and Sunday nights at the First Theater, Monterey. The "Saturday night only" for March has had to be extended to include Sunday nights to take care of the demand for seats.

Last weekend added two veteran Troupers to the olio, when Sergeant Eddie George, on weekend leave from Camp Kohler, and Bobbie McMenamin, down from Cal, put on their Troupers make-up and did specialty numbers.

Hilarity and two hours of continuous fun and entertainment characterize all Gold Coast Troupers shows, which will be given from now until the summer season begins on Saturday and Sunday nights in California's First Theater, Monterey.

Home Fix-It Class

In response to a popular demand, the AWVS has arranged for a class in Home Mechanics, how to repair that electric iron, put a new washer in the faucet and do the countless other little home repair jobs.

Mrs. P. A. Mix, in charge of courses sponsored by the AWVS, announces that students may enroll next Thursday evening at 7:30 in the shop room of the Sunset school. The course will be included in the Adult School curriculum, and taught by Mr. Ernest Calley of the Carmel high school faculty.

J. W. Getsinger Leads Section at Salinas Meeting

Superintendent J. W. Getsinger led the noon time session at the regional meeting of the California Association for Adult Education in Salinas Saturday.

Tuning in on a radio broadcast was one of the features of the meeting. Governor Earl Warren, in the broadcast, gave his endorsement of adult education. He said that the war time training of over 500,000 people by adult education programs made it possible for California to carry one-ninth of the total war production for the nation. A new technical intelligence, a knowledge of the resources of the nation, and a broad understanding of war aims are important to the war effort, the governor said and added that the soundness of California's adult education plans have been proved, that the war has ended all dispute as to its value.

Radio messages from President Robert Gordon Sproul, of the University of California; Orson Welles, speaking on the new techniques of adult education; former Congressman Phil Swing of San Diego, and Lyman Bryson, education director of the Columbia Broadcasting System were included.

Other sections of the Salinas meeting were led by Thorwald Krogh, Monterey; Calvin Cope, Pacific Grove; Miss Helen Ward, Salinas and Fred Flodberg, Watsonville.

Mystery Tree Grows In Front of Pine Cone Building

Last week was an anniversary for the Pine Cone, the end of its first year under its new owners. But it was entirely coincidental that the Carmel Street Department arrived on that date with a young pine tree and planted it in front of the Pine Cone Building.

"City's been meaning to put one in there for years," said Dave Askev, street superintendent, very, very casually. "City Clerk Saidee Van Brower has been saying for a long time that a pine tree should be there to hide the power pole."

L. L. Dewar, street commissioner, wears an innocent, absent expression when the "coincidence" is mentioned. Other city councilmen think it's nice a tree was planted—certainly should be one there—but they don't know anything about it—not a thing.

They hold to the theory that the pine tree just happened, and picked out a most agreeable time to do it.

The danger is real, but it can be avoided if Carmel pet owners will comply with the regulations of the quarantine which are clearly and simply stated in the legal notices on page 13 of this issue. Read them.

Superintendent Getsinger

The school board went into a huddle Tuesday night and emerged with the announcement that they had removed the "Acting" portion from School Superintendent J. W. Getsinger's title.

Appointed Acting Superintendent after the death of Otto Bardarson in December, Getsinger stepped into a difficult job and handled it with tact and administrative ability that have won for him the cooperation of students and teachers, the approval of parents and the school board.

In addition to the heavy load he carries as superintendent of Carmel schools, he has continued to conduct his two chemistry classes at the high school.

"The best way for a superintendent to understand the problems of teachers is to teach," he says.

A member of the Carmel Lions' Club, at one time in business himself, he has the businessman's as well as the educator's point of view, a valuable asset in an administrative school post.

His appointment as "acting" superintendent was a wise one. The removal of the "acting" from the title, a logical sequence.

Out Nasty Spot

Carmel has found out that it can be tidy without any loss in patriotism, and is considerably relieved at the discovery. For months sensitive individuals would pass the post office lot with averted faces and drooping shoulders. Citizens of tougher fiber would stride by the salvage pile of used and often not too clean tin cans, chin out and meeting the eyes of strangers with a pugnacious glare that said: "I know it looks foul, but the Government needs tin for the war effort, and what's it to you, anyway!"

But now all that has changed. Any Carmel citizen can walk by the post office lot without feeling that he should slink or fight. Mayor P. A. McCreery and Salvage Chairman John Gilbert joined in a Peninsula wide salvage meeting several weeks ago at which time it is understood that Mayor McCreery expressed himself emphatically on the subject of tin cans left lying for months in salvage piles by the bottling works whose responsibility it was to pick them up. Arrangements were made so that the cans could be stored in a shed in Monterey, and Mr. McCreery announced that by the following Wednesday, the cans that had inflicted the populace for months would be removed.

They were.

And for two weeks the town has been able to hold up its head. But the can bin is full again.

In another several days the cans will be flowing over into the lot again in all their former disorderliness. However, the mayor has notified the bottling works to remove them, and he assured the Pine Cone Cymbal that if they don't, dire things will happen.

"This tin can business is settled. The lot will be kept clean," Mayor McCreery said, and his tone carried conviction.

We're all very pleased to hear it.—Wilma Cook.

Homes Important In Post War Plans

The 37 million homes of the American people are the nation's most important resource, and so take the center of the stage in all post-war planning. Northern California Home Foundation points out, in suggesting that the starting point for such planning should be with the individual family.

"A great part of our homes resource is in rental units," J. O. Handley, Carmel representative of the Foundation says. "The average renting family hopes for home ownership. A large number of dwellings are too old for modern living—many, indeed, are beyond repair. The families they house, with the newly married, will represent a vast demand for new homes immediately after the war."

"The greater number of our 37 million dwelling units, or at least half of them, are subject to modernization. Here is a case of the kind that retail lumber dealers are constantly meeting: dwelling, six rooms, built 15 years ago, family, three persons, one dog; income, medium; age of family head, 50; post-war building contemplated—remodeling, to include new exterior doors and front windows, enlargement of basement from half to full, addition of attic room with dormers, new kitchen and bathroom equipment, new heating system, improved wiring and lighting, exterior painting and refinishing of interiors; financing, war savings.

"The daughter of this family will doubtlessly marry after the war, perhaps a returned soldier for whom new-home ownership will be made easy.

"Planning for such prospects is as much the duty of the family now, in wartime, as planning on a national or global scale is the duty of the Government. With more war work and savings necessary, with less recreation and fewer things to buy, post-war planning by the family can be made a substantial pleasure in creation of an objective of a good and secure future. It will form present sacrifice into investment."

She Brought Flowers To Lincoln—Now an Orchid for Her

Mrs. Mary G. Burton of Ridge-wood Road, Carmel, was selected as the "Good Neighbor of the Day" on the Breakfast at Sardi's program, and was saluted nationally as such from Hollywood over the Blue Network at 9:30 a.m. PWT on March 5. Immediately following the broadcast, a gorgeous Arm-Roy orchid was sent to Mrs. Burton via air express.

"Auntie" Burton's hosts of friends in Carmel have known for a long time that she was an outstanding person, and are delighted at this nationwide tribute over one of the radio's most popular programs. The letter nominating her for the honor, and read over the air by Tom Breneman, host of the program, was written by Ella Goddard.

"Dear Mr. Breneman," she wrote, "I would like to nominate Mrs. Mary Gerans Burton for your good neighbor orchid. Mrs. Burton was born January 28, 1846 so she is 97 years old. Always wherever she has lived she has taken an active interest in civic and social activities. She has a keen mind and is very much interested in the vital questions of the times. Four years ago when Carmel was voting bonds for a new high school Mrs. Burton, then 93, actively canvassed her neighbors, enlisting their support. She has voted each time since women have had that responsibility.

"Mrs. Burton has led an active, interesting and helpful life. She was one of the three young ladies selected to place flowers on the casket of Lincoln when the cortege stopped at Buffalo, New York. She was present when Dickens read Little Nell in her home town. Mrs. Burton was one of the delegates from Massachusetts to the Peace Conference at Lucerne, Switzerland, in 1905.

"For years she was an active member of the civic and social activities at Pasadena, California. Her mind is a storehouse of beautiful sentiments. She can always recall a lovely poem to fit the occasion. We who know her count it a great privilege . . . and we hope you will make her one of your good neighbors."

H. P. Russell

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, March 8, at St. Matthews chapel in San Mateo for Captain Henry Potter Russell, whose death occurred Wednesday, March 3, at the Fitzsimmons General Hospital in Denver, Colorado.

Captain Russell was well known on the Peninsula, he and his wife, Mrs. Helen Victoria Crocker Russell, having spent a large portion of their time in Carmel Valley, where Capt. Russell operated the famous Double H Ranch breeding farm. He had been commissioned a captain only a few months ago and was serving at Fort Robinson, Nebraska, with the Army Remount Station when he contracted pneumonia. His sudden death was a great shock to his family and many friends here.

In addition to his widow, Captain Russell is survived by his mother, Mrs. Charles Howland Russell of New York, a brother Charles Russell, and two children, Mrs. John H. Lewis of Birmingham, Michigan and Howland Russell, now serving with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Wednesday of last week was graduation day for the new class of Red Cross Gray Ladies from Carmel. They received their veils at an informal ceremony held at the Station Hospital at Fort Ord where they will be on duty from now on, bringing cheer and encouragement into the lives of the patients.

Mrs. Myrtle Lytle, assistant field director of the Red Cross at Fort Ord, awarded certificates of graduation to Mrs. Russell Jones, Mrs. Keylor Smith, Mrs. Pliny Holt, Mrs. C. F. H. Jarvis, Mrs. N. A. Gorman, Mrs. Gordon Snively, Mrs. Maude Wentworth and Mrs. H. F. Dickinson.

The Junior Red Cross girls assigned to assist the Gray Ladies of Carmel chapter have been working all winter, collecting and sorting magazines and preparing supplies used in the handicrafts taught by the Gray Ladies at the Station Hospital at Fort Ord. Those girls who have completed twenty hours of work received service pins Friday afternoon at Carmel Red Cross Headquarters. Mrs. Hobart Prince, chairman of Volunteer Services, presented the girls with their pins, and soda pop and cookies were served. Recipients of this honor were Alice Morehouse, Barbara Timmins, Gay Campbell, Joan Dekker, Pamela Dormody, Ann Hodgson, Barbara Josselyn and Martha Moller.

Dear Miss King:

This is to thank you for the gloves and mufflers we received from your Chapter. These gloves and mufflers were as good as any that we have received to date, and we wish to thank you especially for the outstanding workmanship, time and effort which you have put on them.

Without exception, soldiers are very appreciative of any knitted goods which Red Cross has to give them. This, of course, is especially true of those soldiers who are accustomed to warmer climates and find themselves in "Wintry Utah."

By helping the soldier, you are doing your part to help win this war, and certainly helping to keep the soldier warm and comfortable.

Again may we thank you for the knitted articles and for your efforts in sponsoring such a worthwhile program. Our hope is that we may have further contact with you in the future.

Very truly yours,

Victory Book Drive Ends with Grand Total of 3,864

The Monterey Peninsula Victory Book Campaign closed last Friday in a burst of glory, with a grand total of 3,864 volumes collected.

Of these, Carmel contributed 1,244, Pacific Grove 1,050 and Monterey 1,579. The drive, sponsored by the American Library association, the USO and American Red Cross, was directed by the American Women's Voluntary Services, and met with wholehearted cooperation by the public schools and librarians of the entire peninsula. Top honors among the schools go to the Pacific Grove High school, where students collected 700 books.

The success in Monterey is largely due to Mrs. Peter Watson and the Hotel San Carlos. Mrs. Watson worked untiringly with Mrs. Goodrich, vice chairman of the AWVS, while the Hotel San Carlos gave the use of a vacant store on the corner as a collection center.

In Pacific Grove, Mrs. Dobson of the Forest Hill Hotel served daily in the collection center, receiving books during all of the month and keeping count as they came in.

In Carmel, the Lions' Club maintained a window in Carleton's Grocery on Ocean Avenue, collecting over 300 books there. Pine Inn provided a store room and a display window. Mrs. Jim Cooke was chairman of the Carmel Committee. Mr. Willard Wheeler took charge at Pebble Beach, and Col. R. R. Wallace headed collections in the Country Club area. Miss Elizabeth Niles of the Harrison Memorial Library did trojan duty sorting books for shipment.

Mrs. Rama Stearns, A W V S head, reports that books this year were for the most part in good condition and of excellent selection—though of course a few of the "Dotty Dimple" type were slipped in.

The termination of the campaign does not mean that the need for further books has passed. The libraries of Monterey, Pacific Grove and Carmel will still receive donations, and it is hoped the good work of sending books to the boys in the service will continue unabated.

THE GOLDEN DAYS OF EATING
IN SAN FRANCISCO

By DR. FRANK P. TOPPING

Probably no city in the world—or at least on the American continent—is wider and better and more affectionately known than San Francisco. The very name breathes romance, from the earliest days of the gold rush of '48 and '49, when the hardy pioneers were told, and they did truly believe, they would pick up golden nuggets from the streets of San Francisco.

Following their arrival and disillusionment, all who were able, outfitted in San Francisco and left for the gold fields, "the diggings" in the valley of the Sacramento. History relates that even the officials departed in numbers, leaving the city—really a straggling town of shacks with an occasional building of brick and stone—without any organized government. The few newspapers suspended publication, for had not the staff gone gold seeking? Sailors from the seven seas deserted their ships, some of which were beached on the shore of what is now Battery and Sansome streets, and some of these vessels (for example: the bark "Niantic") were converted into hotels and boarding houses.

Yet by sea from across the Panama isthmus, by horse and buck-board and oxen drawn caravans of covered wagons, the influx continued; for here was the starting point for the gold mines.

Necessarily, this brought a polyglot population from all parts of the globe, the best and the worst—habitués of saloons and gambling houses, dance halls and of the underworld. Lawlessness often was rampant, and local government insufficient to control the outlaw. As a result, shootings and stabbings, killings and hangings in the streets or the nearby public square were not too infrequent sights.

Early disappointment and impoverishment after the long haul from the take-off at the Missouri River, drove many a man to drink, or gambling and carousing, leaving him stranded in this teeming outpost city, without enough left for his outfitting, or even the chance of being "grub-staked". Many such degenerated into derelicts, or beach combers, or even into crime.

Yet San Francisco, "the city that knows how" built on the shore of its marvelous landlocked harbor, was destined to survive and it continued to grow in spite of crime and riot and rapine, despite destructive fires and even occasional earthquakes. For some of the wiser men saw that money was best to be made, not in mining, but in merchandizing in the necessities and luxuries of life, and caring for the vast horde of wanderers. A man must eat; a man must be housed; cared for when ill, and defended when in trouble.

So, from the back-wash emerged many men of outstanding ability; stalwarts of the legal profession, brilliant and able men of the press, learned men of the medical profession and of the arts and sciences—of literature and art, captains of industry and shrewd and trained men from the counting-house. From among these came the element of better and wiser citizens, who had their homes to protect and their wives and children to support in comfort and safety. Justice and the law courts were not firmly established; some were corrupt even, and manipulation by crooked politicians and ballot-box stuffing was only too frequent a condition. The result was the early formation in 1851 and later in 1856 of the Vigilante committee to act as "a committee of safety," which brought about the hanging of those arch murderers, Charles Cora and James P. Casey. The former, an unpunished murderer of a U. S. Marshall; an Italian gambler supported by Belle Cora, a notorious prostitute. The latter was an ex-convict

SLOW AUTO

*Slow down your speed to twenty miles
And see how all the landscape smiles!
Take time to catch, from out the trees,
Leaf odors on the mountain breeze.*

*Don't fail to glimpse, as you pass by,
An ermine-bordered strip of sky,
Blue as the rain-pool in the grass.
Take time for gray rocks as you pass.*

*And let the sly brook's gentle laughter
Bring balm to your heart—till joy comes after,
From moss, and falls, and a primrose moon
That will rise like a prayer in the blue east soon.*

*Let this quiet world, going gently by,
Send peace to your soul from earth and sky.
Take time for beauty's ageless joy,
Which grief and care shall not destroy!*

—CHARLES BULLARD.

SONG FROM THE SOLOMONS

*Lift me up! Lift me up!
For I have forgot
How the high hills float in the evening air,
How the twilight birds with seeking wings
Settle with song to the tall spruce boughs.*

*Is there a girl in an aspen grove
Shaking the snow from her shining hair?
Is there an hour when out of the woods
The deer come singly on fragile hooves?*

*For I would remember! Aye, God, I would,
When the seas grow dark in the afternoon.*

—KATHRYNE E. SCOVILLE.

SONNET AT DUSK

*Pursued by shadows of approaching night,
Fled half a sound, an echo on tiptoe;
The river murmured, willows answered low
To meadows listening. Behind the flight
Of fading sun-gold, arching down the height
Through darkness, stars cascaded in a glow
Of lanterns glistening. This is all I know
About lost beauty in the lapse of sight:*

*Stars stay unhurried; often it has seemed
That music lingers patiently with me;
The river moves, remains; night has not schemed
A dark device to cloak day's memory;
As each bright morning wakes with brittle laughter,
So each warm dusk lives on forever after.*

—CARL JOHN BOSTELMANN.

from Sing Sing who murdered on the streets of San Francisco the unarmed, fearless editor of the Evening Bulletin, James King of William, a beloved and respected citizen.

The vigilante committee brought forth such able men as William T. Coleman, Sam Brannan, Dempster, Truett, Farley, Beverly Cole, Smiley and others who really accomplished a good, even in the face of such indictment as:

"They broke the law to uphold the law."

Thus closed an epoch of crime and inefficient legal procedure. With such men as the Vigilantes as a nucleus from which to build and progress, San Francisco continued to grow and develop, and in spite of early and occasional setbacks of minor disasters, depressions, banking and stockbroking failures, it was a healthy growth of progress.

Her early pioneers—men of courage and vision—furnished the brain and the sinews of finance for the transcontinental railroads uniting the Central and Union Pacific roads of the 60's; for the development of the Comstock Lode and the Sutro tunnel of the '70's, and furnished to the world the tremendous successes accomplished by such teams as Crocker, Stanford, Huntington, Hopkins and Judah, the engineer, of the railroad group; by Flood, O'Brien, Mackey and Fair of the Comstock; by Adolph Sutro of the Sutro Tunnel; by Miller and Lux, the Cattle Barons, and such others, singly and in pairs, as Hayward and Hobart, Haggin and Tevis, Lucky Baldwin, James Phelan, George Hearst, D. O. Mills, and many others who had both the vision and confidence, to invest in San Francisco the results of their gold ventures, from railroads, from real estate locally or far away from the then center of early San Francisco with its outlying sand dunes. So was San Francisco born and developed!

As is seen by the above, gold magic was the magnet to draw and attract all sorts and conditions of men and women from far distant points, men whose accomplishment gave us the San Francisco we knew so well (and the world knew almost as well). Yet among these above enumerated was an equally valiant band of citizenry whose talents, not measured in money, nevertheless were to keep San Francisco in the public eyes as a nucleus of the arts, a haven for Bohemians, disciples of art, music, literature and the drama.

It is hardly necessary to mention such well known stars as Bret Harte, Mark Twain, Stevenson, "R. L. S.", or Charles Warren Stoddard and that other poet of promise, George Sterling; the early painters of note: Jules Tavernier, Julian Rix, Keith, Hill, Brooks, Virgil Williams, Jorgensen, Joullan and others of the day of which we write such as Dickman, Wores, Cahill, Latimer, Gray, Martinez, Sparks, McComas, Swinnerton, Peters, some now living, some dead, but whose works shine on as do the sculptured art of Tilden, Patigian, Putnam, Cummings and Bobby Aitken of New York.

Finally, there was that noble band of newsmen of the pioneer days: Soule and Newhall of the first California Chronicle, John Nugent of the Herald; the martyred James King of William of the Bulletin, he "who died not in vain," also Charles De Young of the present Chronicle, J. C. Cremony of the Sun; Edward W. Townsend, Ambrose Bierce, Frank Pixley and Fred Somers, founders of the Argonaut; John Bonner of the Bulletin, John P. Irish of the Alta, Ernest Simpson of the Call, beloved Ned Hamilton, dean of the Examiner, and numerous other members of the Fourth Estate, now all gone, yet whose writings all linger in fond memory—a beacon-light of journalism.

All of the above groups were patrons of San Francisco's unique and unusual well-known, and equally famous "little-known" restaurants.

Laddie is the son of Mrs. Fern Hyde and the late Albert P. Hyde, and brother of Mrs. Robert Mitchell of Closter, N. J. and Mrs. Roy Larson of Carmel, whose wedding to Technical Sergeant Roy Larson took place in St. John's Chapel, Del Monte, on February 3. Laddie and his family have been closely identified with Carmel for the past fifteen years. While the date has not yet been set for the wedding, it will be an event of the near future.

Mrs. E. H. Ewig, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, explained something of the ideals and accomplishments of the organization, which has concerned itself with rehabilitation, and especially child welfare. Its present object is to continue along these same lines, but more than ever tie its work in connection with World War I into the present urgent war effort.

Wayfarer Ladies Help in Leper Mission Work

Members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer and of the Carmel Missionary society meet monthly or oftener to make bandages for use in the leper hospitals maintained by the American Mission to Lepers. Many persons do not know that there are many thousands of lepers in the United States, cared for chiefly in government hospitals; however, their social and religious life is largely dependent upon the work of the mission.

In foreign countries, especially Africa and Asia, hospitals for lepers are maintained almost solely by the missions, and one of the most pressing needs is for bandages and dressings, since all funds must be used for medicines, foods and other necessities. For many years, groups on the Monterey Peninsula have collected worn out sheets and pillowcases and made the much needed bandages, even very small pieces of soft old cloth can be used for dressings. Old napkins and tablecloths which are no longer usable, or other white material are greatly appreciated for this work, and any donations of this kind will be gladly received. Contributions may be made through Mrs. D. E. Nixon.

An offering for the work of the American Mission to Lepers was recently made by the Wayfarer Church Sunday school, and contributions by individuals brought the sum to $13.00. This will be sent to the treasurer of the Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women, in Pacific Grove, who will send it, with the offering taken at the meeting of the World Day of Prayer, March 12, to the American Mission to Lepers' office in Los Angeles. This mission is dependent for its funds upon contributions from interested individuals, societies and churches throughout the United States.—L.L.T.

Vieille-La Tour, Nuptials

Miss Henrietta La Tour, daughter of Mrs. E. B. Grigg of Carmel, became the bride of Lt. R. C. Vieille of North Hollywood at St. Clement's Episcopal Church in Berkeley on Thursday, March 11, the ceremony performed by Dean J. Henry Thomas.

Against a background of white flowering peach in Roman standards, accented with daffodils, the bride, in white ivory satin with a veil of tulle finished with duchess lace and fastened to her head with a halo and cap of the same lace, was given away in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wesley W. Kergan. She was attended by Eleonora Dawson as maid of honor, and Phyllis Lindley (both of Berkeley) as bridesmaid. The best man was Charles Nicolls and ushers were Ensign James Bailey and Arline Ballentyne.

Mrs. Vieille is a Kappa Alpha Theta, University of California, where she is a member also of Torch and Shield and the Ace of Clubs. She is the sister of Robert and Josephine La Tour, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gutterson.

Lt. Vieille is the son of Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Vieille of North Hollywood, a Delta Tau Delta, U. C., where he is also a member of Golden Bear and Skull and Keys.

The young couple will make their home at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito.

2nd Lt. Kathryn Bier

Miss Kathryn S. Bier was commissioned a second lieutenant in physiotherapy at Fort Ord on March 2. Miss Bier, who received her training at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D. C., served as chairman of the Nurses' Aide and Home Nursing in Carmel last year, and this word of her promotion to the royal blue uniform of a commissioned officer is good news to her many local friends.

SUNDAY, March 14, 1943

"The Invincible Church" will be Dr. Crowther's sermon theme next Sunday morning at the Church of the Wayfarer. Margaret Sherman Lea will play the following organ program: "Kammenoi - Ostrow," Rubenstein; "Chorus of Happy Spirits," Gluck; "Largo," Handel. The service begins at eleven; visitors are cordially invited. On this first Sunday of Lent we would do well to renew and refresh our interest in the vital things for which the Church stands.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Substance" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, March 14, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The Golden Text will be: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: . . . both riches and honour come to thee, and thou reignest over all," (I Chronicles 29: 11, 12).

Other Bible citations will include: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. For by it the elders obtained a good report. Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear," (Hebrews 11: 1-3).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord and decay. Truth, Life and Love are substance as the Scriptures use this word in Hebrews: 'The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen,' (p. 468).

High School News

C. H. S. Basketball

The preliminaries for the game with Pacific Grove last Friday took place in the gym during the noon hour. The G. A. A. pledges opened the rally with a big Carmel yell, and later on led the student body in the new school song. Jo-An Thorne and Mary Jane Reel took over after the G. A. A. had made its contribution. The gym fairly rang with the shouts, as the students gave out with all the strength of their vocal cords.

Friday, March 5, with something to really fight for, the Carmel Lightweights, crew cuts included, went into their game with Pacific Grove determined to come out the victors. They chalked up 13 hard earned points, which incidentally, was two more than their opponents. We should feel mighty proud of our boys for bringing the first, (and it won't be the last) Peninsula League Championship home to roost.

The bright lights shone down on the packed rooting sections of both teams. The red and blue of the Carmel team contrasted gaily with the yellow and red of the Pacific Grove players.

The fans were quiet when the whistle blew starting the heavy-weight game, but this silence was shattered when the ball was tipped. The eyes of all the spectators followed the players as they took the ball and tried to keep it.

The Carmel team was leading up into the last few minutes of play, but a Pacific Grove player took possession of the leather sphere and made some lucky shots.

The score finally ended 22-20 with Pacific Grove on top.—Ann Casati.

The Ruthless Enemy

It was the seventh of December, nineteen forty-one. When our islands were bombed and raided; by the imperial Rising Sun.

The people were killed and wounded, and their bodies covered with mud; And where innocent children were playing, was literally soaked with blood.

Among the war-torn ruins, where mangled bodies lay, A shattered flag of freedom waves—the flag of the U. S. A.

But on the blood-stained beaches, the ruthless foe invades; And that peaceful land of freedom, is now a land of slaves.

From the cities and the streets, the able people fled; But the bloody streets were scattered with the helpless and the dead.

The flag of freedom no longer waves, o'er this land that once stood free; But the minds of the tortured people, are thinking of Victory.

Yes! The battle is just beginning for the Imperial Rising Sun; America awakens, and Johnny gets his gun.

The Yanks are on the march again, or "war path" as we say, So watch out, you ruthless enemy, the Yanks are on their way.

With all the strength of our nation we will fight to victory. Yes! You've made your last mistake, you fools, you ruthless enemy. —Stanley Ewig.

G. A. A. Initiation

The corridors of C. H. S. were haunted with apparitions clad in gunny sacks, hair tortured with metal curlers or tight pigtails, and faces shining with cold cream, on March 5. They were just the G.A.A. pledges, and such costumes are donned only when new members are initiated. Shirley McKinney, La Verne DeAmaral, Clara Hitchcock, Rose Mary Powell, Betsy Roeth, Jean Podmore, Mary Ada Torres, Elizabeth Stanley and Joan Janda were the pledges.—Ann Casati.

Herb Hooser Leaves

Our own "Col." Herbert Hooser isn't with us any longer. Herby has taken a job in the ship yards in Stockton, where he will be employed as an electrical worker. His family will remain here until the end of the school year, and then they will join him. In the near future Herby hopes to buy a few acres of land where he can have a small farm and raise all he needs for food.

Good luck to you, Herb, and don't forget us all back here at C.H.S.—Helen Passadori.

which have added to her fame and are the real motif of what is to follow. It might be asked, "Why go into this early history of San Francisco in order to handle the subject of some of her famous restaurants and allied resorts?"

The answer is: "Because these restaurants and bars were the outgrowth of life as it then existed in San Francisco in the earlier days. Here was where men congregated for work and play; for relief from daily cares and relaxation in the 'small hours' after the forms were locked. Many a 'deal' was consummated over a bottle or the dinners during the 'roaring eighties' and 'gay nineties' up to the fire and earthquake—which changed all of old San Francisco." Our period ends with the disaster of 1906 — an epoch gone and a generation passed!

Our Victory Gardens

Children in Sunset School have been making Victory gardens. Mr. Burge is helping us at his nursery. He is helping to furnish some of the dirt for our boxes of seedlings and showing us how they should be planted. We brought boxes and some of the dirt to start Victory gardens. We gave him seeds and he gave us some seedlings. Seedlings are baby plants.

After our seedlings grow up a little more, we shall take them home and plant them in our big Victory gardens. Then we won't have to buy so much food, and our armed forces and allies can have more food. — Ellis Jump, Grade 4.

NOTE: Ellis' father is overseas with our army. He is certainly trying to do all he can to help his dad and Uncle Sam.

Valley Hike

Last night I got to sleep outside in a tent with a friend of mine. We got my horse late in the evening, put on the saddle, and started. The horse seemed awfully excited about the whole thing. — Henry Werner, Grade 5.

Camping

One day my cousin and my father decided to go camping, and I asked them if I could go with them. They said yes. We went to Yosemite the next day. We went horseback riding and my cousin got off her horse. The horse saw something and ran away. One of the rangers caught him. My cousin was tired by the time we got back because she had to ride double. — Cynthia Zaranitas, Grade 5.

Moving

Moving isn't fun, especially when you get at the other end. You unpack the dishes and dry them. Then you try to find a place to put them, maybe you have to build in shelf space, or you might have to use the cooler for the glasses. Then you have the clothes to tackle. So you unpack the clothes and then you discover you haven't any dresser. So you put everything on a hook. You probably will have that trouble, too. My advice is to just put everything in the basement or garage and forget it.—Mary Eleanor Horne, Grade 5.

Bruno Adriani to Give Talk Today For French Relief

"The France We Knew and Loved" will be the topic of a speech by Bruno Adriani this afternoon, March 12, at 4 o'clock, in Pine Inn, under the auspices of Carmel's Fighting French Relief, Inc.

M. Adriani, internationally known as a lecturer and author in the field of art, came from Los Angeles a year and a half ago, to make a home in Carmel for himself and Mme. Adriani. Prior to their sojourn in Los Angeles, their home was in Switzerland.

M. Adriani will speak in his native French and there will be a silver collection.

Another Pine Cone Poet Wins Award

Pine Cone Poet Lirrel Starling has achieved another success we learn from The Angels Camp Californian, which says:

American Poetry Magazine, official organ of the American Literary Association, with headquarters in Wauwatosa, Wis., has just awarded an oil painting to Lirrel Starling, a member of the Stockton Poetry Society. The canvas, a large one depicting a colorful autumn landscape, is by the noted Easter artist, Leander Leitner. This award was merited by a collection of seven poems titled "Sonnets on the Portraits of Beatrice Cenci et al." submitted by Miss Starling in the annual competition for poets which is sponsored by the Wisconsin publication.

A recent cash prize for the Stockton member was accorded by the American Poetry Journal of Olympia, Wash., for another poem, "Adobe." Oscar Gagliani has made familiar a former old building in Happy Valley, with his painting "Adobe House" exhibited last year in the Lodi Public Library. It was the same structure, a beloved landmark of Miss Starling's childhood, which she says "was subconsciously present beneath my word-picture of the adobe in this poem."

KGy, Olympia, has recently broadcast some of the poet's work. Her latest war poems, "Sonnet in a New Age," dedicated to America's Air Force, and "Silver Wings," widely reprinted since its first publication a year ago in the Carmel Pine Cone - Cymbal, appears currently in America Speaks, an anthology representing more than 500 contemporary poets, which has just been published by Horizon House, New York City.

Lirrel Starling, who is the author of "Bit O' Verse" in the Calaveras Weekly, in private life is Mrs. E. M. Hickman of Mokelumne Hill and the daughter of John Gardella of Mokelumne Hill.

Rabies Quarantine Effective Here

ized by State Law to examine and enter upon all private premises for the enforcement of this quarantine. Persons violating the provisions of this quarantine shall be subject to arrest on the charge of committing a misdemeanor."

Burden of enforcement falls upon the County Health Department. The County Poundmaster or his deputies will pick up loose cats and dogs; hold for observation animals that have been bitten and animals that show symptoms of rabies. Carmel citizens seeing violations of the quarantine should phone the health department in Monterey 8583 or the Carmel police department, 131.

Enforcement will be strict, but the disease will be checked most effectively and the quarantine lifted sooner, if the authorities have the cooperation of pet owners in keeping their animals confined. Some time must elapse between the reporting of cases of loose dogs and the arrival of the authorities. In this time a rabid animal can infect a number of others, increasing the danger and prolonging the quarantine period.

In seeking the cooperation of citizens in the quarantined areas, the County Health Department issued the following official statement:

Dr. Kenneth C. Sheriff, Health Officer of Monterey county wishes to call to the reader's attention the advertisement in this paper concerning the enactment of a quarantine on all dogs and cats in the Peninsula area. Such a quarantine has been made necessary by the increase of animal rabies in this section and this action is deemed necessary for the protection of the health of the public.

Dr. Sheriff stated that rabies is an acute, rapidly fatal infection transmitted from a rabid animal to a human or to another animal usually through biting. While it is a disease primarily of dogs and secondarily of man, nearly every mammal is susceptible; cats, horses, sheep, goats and even birds have been known to contract this disease.

The virus responsible for rabies enters the skin through broken tissues at the site of the bite and follows the nerve trunks to the spinal cords and thence to the brain. It must be kept in mind, however, that by merely handling a rabid animal and coming in contact with the saliva, the virus may gain access through a broken portion of the skin and thus attack the nerve centers.

The length of time it takes after infection for the virus to reach the brain and produce the symptoms of rabies in man is from 50 to 60 days, but the disease may develop in less than ten days after a bite, or it may not develop for a year or more. The incubation period is influenced greatly by the location and severity of the bite. The closer the wound is to the brain, the more quickly the virus will reach the brain.

In all cases of animal bites, the wound should be cleaned out and cauterized by a physician, as quickly as possible. The only reliable cauterizing agent is strong fuming nitric acid. The next step is to determine whether the person bitten should be given Pasteur or anti-rabies treatment. In order to determine this, the Health Department should be informed of the bite, and the location of the dog responsible for biting. The animal is then quarantined for a period of 21 days, during which time it is kept under constant observation by the Health Department personnel. If at the end of the quarantine period, the dog is still alive and healthy, the person bitten can be assured that the animal could not transmit rabies at the time of the bite.

However, if the animal develops typical symptoms of rabies during this period of quarantine, the brain of the animal is examined and the results of the laboratory finding plus the clinical symptoms determine whether treatment is necessary for the person bitten. Needless to say, all cases of dog bites should be reported immediately to the Health Department along with a description of the dog and the name and address of the owner.

For the benefit of the public the following numbers may be called in reporting stray dogs and cats or dog bites.

Monterey County Health Dept. 8583
County Poundmaster 7047
Monterey Peninsula Animal Shelter 3333

Dr. Sheriff stated that all pet owners, to avoid inconvenience and for the protection of their pets, should keep them securely confined on their premises during this quarantine period. He further stated that he wished to assure the residents of this area that as soon as the menace of the public's health is removed, the quarantine would be modified or lifted entirely.

Sunset Spelling Almost Normal

25 to 30 pupils had left to attend the Notre Dame School at Villa Angelica, but there had been an increase in new enrollments at Sunset, 20 new students entering grades 1 to 7 and 12 the kindergarten, so that the total is 440.

Superintendent J. W. Getsinger reported that the enrollment at the high school for the past two months was 247. Reporting on the school cafeteria, he said that Sunset had a profit of $21.40 for the month, a balance of $840.58; the high school a profit of $16.86; balance, $101.60.

Other business was the granting of leave of absence to Harold Bartlett, music instructor, to go into defense work and the employment of Jaffrey Harris to take his place; the releasing of Herb Hooser, custodian, also for defense work; the employment of Howard E. Timbers to teach mathematics in the high school, Mrs. Walter Barry to teach seventh grade at Sunset and the granting of a contract to J. W. Getsinger as school superintendent.

Symbolic of the role the Red Cross is again playing, the 1943 Red Cross War Fund poster depicts the organization as a mother ministering to the needs of the men of the United States armed forces and the victims of war throughout the world. The poster is an appeal to all men and women for contributions to the War Fund. Lawrence Wilbur, noted illustrator, designed the poster. Helen Mueller is the model.

Retired Teachers May Return to Work

Owing to the drain on teachers through enlistment in the armed forces and employment in defense industries, the State has amended the Teachers' Retirement Act to permit certain pensioned teachers to return to active work in the schools.

The amended code reads as follows.

"Section 5, 876 of the Teachers' Retirement Act has been amended by emergency legislation to permit (a) persons retired for service, after 30 years' service, and (b) persons retired under assumed disability because of attaining at least age 65, with less than 30 years' of service, to return to teaching duties in positions subject to the retirement system, at any time after retirement, but only after giving notice to the Retirement Board in Sacramento. Persons retired because of disability, based on medical examination, may return to teaching duties only after the Retirement Board has determined by medical examination that they have recovered from the disability for which they were retired.

"Upon return to such teaching duties, which can take place only after notice to the Retirement Board, the retirement allowance will be cancelled forthwith. Subsequent retirement can take place only upon an application filed in the same manner as if the individual had never been retired and reinstated."

set field. The latter field dries much more rapidly, and a dry day on Saturday, followed by clear weather on Sunday will undoubtedly see baseball games at one of the fields.

The captain situation is undergoing more changes. Hap Hasty has left for the army, and Ernie Morehouse, of slow-ball fame, has been persuaded to fill the vacancy. The Giants will be playing without their captain this week, as Herb Hooser is leaving for the Stockton shipyards. A successor has not been chosen as yet.

Incidentally, with so many players leaving or about to leave, there are plenty of vacancies. If you can lift a bat or throw a ball, come out Sunday. We're hoping that the sun will do likewise.

Schedule for Sunday's games, if they can be played: Giants vs. Tigers; Shamrocks vs. Pilots; Tigers vs. Shamrocks; Pilots vs. Giants.
